

Movies, like parables, can teach and uplift as well as entertain. Sad to say, that doesn't seem to be the goal of major film studios. So, should we even go to movies? Is my job as a film reviewer even valid? But movies are here to stay, and Christians are going to them - just like everybody else. So, how do Christians make peace with Hollywood? Or should they? And can a movie critic light the way? MOVIES: The Good, The Bad, and the Really, Really Bad is first designed to point out Hollywood agendas. Next, it explores ways we can resist the secular world's tug of war against God's directives. We'll then take a lighter look at the positives of motion pictures, including examples of men and women who are using the movie medium to amuse man and glorify God. Lastly, we'll showcase some films (both old and new) that entertain, enrich or enlighten. With any luck, we'll experience a couple of chuckles along the way.
